NCDPI Responsiveness to Instruction (RtI) Foundations Training

This is a very exciting time in North Carolina as we embrace Responsiveness to Instruction to support school improvement and student achievement. How wonderful to know that many of you are moving to implementation of a problem-solving model, using RtI as your framework for instruction.

NCDPI has been working to streamline the RtI Foundations Training, ensuring that it is aligned with all other initiatives in the agency. Our next RtI Foundations training is planned for the fall. At that time, we will provide a menu of professional development offerings to support RtI implementation. Information on fall training will be announced by mid-to late-summer.

Thank you for your continued interest and pursuit of training for your district and school staff. If you need further information, please contact Sherry Abernethy at sabernethy@dpi.state.nc.us, Amy Scrinzi at amy.scrinzi@ncpublicschools.gov or Dan Tetreault at dan.tetreault@ncpublicschools.gov.
