Queens University of Charlotte

2007 - 2008

Overview of Master's Program

The Master of Arts in Teaching program at Queens allows adult students to pursue teaching licensure in elementary education in a two-phase model. In order to be admitted to program students must reach cut scores on the GRE. At the end of Phase I, all competencies for 'A' level licensure are met in 30 credit hours. The 12 credit hour Internship completes Phase I. Candidates then move on to Phase II. During this portion of the program students focus on understanding the role of research to professional growth, designing and implementing action research projects, developing as reflective practitioners and becoming more aware and knowledgeable of the diversity that they are encountering in their classrooms. At the end of Phase II candidates receive the MAT degree and apply for 'M' level licensure. The program emphasizes the teacher as a diagnostician, who is aware of resources to assist in modifying instruction to allow students to thrive. In 2003 a M.Ed. in Literacy program began at the request of CMS. The M.Ed. offers North Carolina Licensure in Reading (K-12) as part of a graduate degree. The M. Ed. is designed for candidates who hold an undergraduate degree, a valid teaching license in the state of North Carolina, and who have at least two years of teaching experience. The M. Ed. program consists of 33 hours of coursework, leading to an "M" level license. As with the MAT, the program is academically rigorous, offered at convenient times during the week and on Saturdays, at convenient sites and involves CMS students in a Summer Reading Clinic. The final class is an Action Research project where teachers will design, execute and interpret the results of their own efforts to increase achievement in their classroom. Queens University of Charlotte has a long-standing commitment to provide educators with the skills needed to deal with the complexities of today's classroom setting. Candidates earning their licensure at Queens commit themselves to a productive career and a noble life in teaching. They recognize the vital role of the educator in guiding, nurturing, and shaping the lives of children.

Special Features of Master's Program

Most candidates in the MAT program are employed in Charlotte businesses. While they are successful in their current careers, they are not satisfied. These candidates plan to stay in the Charlotte area and teach in local schools. They flourish in the intimate Queens' environment. The M.Ed. candidates are experienced CMS teachers. They also thrive in the intimate environment that Queens offers. Courses are offered at convenient times during the week and on Saturdays as well as at convenient sites.
